She was then removed to her home, and is still in a precarious condition. ## A FLOATING HORROR.

A Human Body Cut Up, Packed in a Can, and Cast Into the Bay.

The Gruesome Bit of Flotsam Found by an Alameda Laborer This Morning. Is It Murder or Medicine?

A laborer employed at the Alameda Oil Works found a five-gallon coal oil can floating near the Alameda shore this morning and curiosity inspired him to open it. It contained portions of a human body hacked to pieces and sprinkled with quicklime and the can was sealed with plaster of paris. A foot and hand and portions of a human trunk were in the can. Coroner Evers went to Alameda this afternoon and secured the can, which was peremptorily buried in the potter's field with very little ceremony. It is thought by the officials to be the remnants of some medical student's dissecting table, but there is a suspicion that a murder may have been behind the butchering of the body, and that other members may be floating about in other cans.

OVER THE RUBICON.

Judge E. M. Gibson Goes Over to the Democrats.

HE SAYS HE WAS BEATEN BY TRICKERY,

But Does Not Make Any Specific Charges—The Senatorial Convention at Hanson Hall, Tonight.

Judge E. M. Gibson, "Honest Old Gib," as his new found Democratic friends are so fond of calling him just now, was interviewed this morning by a TRIBUNE reporter in regard to his independent candidacy. His Honor exhibited, at first, some of that coyness which characterized his utterances of Saturday, but was finally induced to declare himself somewhat fully.

He said, "I don't like to say much to the newspapers for fear of getting myself into trouble and I have had trouble enough lately."

"So you have formally and finally accepted the tender of an independent nomination, have you not, Judge?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, I have," replied the veteran and commissioned officer of the Republican party. "I have done nothing of my own accord, but have simply submitted to the will of the people. Whether I have made a mistake or not let the people decide. I will abide by their decision, and if I am defeated at the polls no one will ever hear me utter a single complaint."

"In your published acceptance, you spoke of dishonest methods used in your defeat at the convention. Can you specify as to those methods?"

"I do not care to make any charges against anyone," replied the Judge, "but I feel that the will of the people was not expressed in that convention, and that I was defeated by trickery. Now I am going to give the people an opportunity to express their will."

In reply to the question "Do you consider yourself absolved from your pledges to support the Republican ticket, implied or expressed, made to the convention?" he said: "Yes; I do. I was defeated unfairly and I consider that I am absolved from any such pledges. A judicial office should be a non-political and non-partisan one. I was not treated fairly in that convention. My defeat was decided upon at least two days before the convention met. I make no accusations, but it was a political job."

"Has anything been said to you, Judge, about a ratification of your nomination by the Democrats?" was the next question, and the man who has fought the Democrats for years smilingly said:

"Yes. Something has been said. Of course I don't know anything about it;" with an accent upon the "know" that showed he believed such a ratification to be at least within the realm of possibility.

The Judge then spoke of his prospects for election and his inducements to take the course he has pursued. "I have been assured," said he, "of the support of prominent Republicans, and prominent citizens of all parties—literally by hundreds. And these men were the very best citizens of the county. Look at the names upon that petition—the very best men in town. I was told that one thousand such names could have been secured just as easily as one hundred."

The Judge then exhibited to the reporter and to a few admiring friends who had come in, a package of letters and telegrams from friends, who urged him to run as an independent candidate. One of these, from Eden township, was signed "Sixty Bolters." Another was from T. H. Goodman, general ticket agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad. Others, of a private nature, were from old friends and members of the Grand Army.

"I see," said the Judge, "that the old soldiers at their meeting the other evening agreed to support the ticket from top to bottom. That was perfectly proper for them as a body, but two-thirds of them will vote for me all the same—I believe."

"Of course," continued the Judge, "I expect to be abused by the papers and I expect that some of the old line politicians will shed tears over me."

"Let them shed tears, tears, and be damned," remarked one of the admiring friends, who had now congregated in the Judge's chambers to the number of half a dozen.

Calmly ignoring this pungent observation, "Honest Old Gib." continued: "As long as they treat me as a gentleman should be treated, I shall make no accusations, shall not even make any reply; but if they do indulge in personal abuse—well, it will be time enough then to decide what to do."

"Have any of your friends remonstrated with you?" was asked.

"O yes, several of my friends have come to me and said they could not support me, and I don't think any the less of them for that. If their party ties are so strong as that I cannot complain. I shall be not the less friendly to them, because they do not see their way clear to support me."

"Do you consider that your party ties were broken by the action of the Republican County Convention?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, no, I am still a Republican. I consider myself a good Republican. I have been a Republican ever since I was a barefooted boy. But I claim that I have a right to go before the people for a judicial office. My mind is made up. Perhaps I have made a mistake. If I have, let the people decide it so and I shall not complain," and his honor turned to the court business of the day.

M. C. Chapman who made one of the finest speeches in the Convention, placing Judge Gibson's name before that body, was asked today if he had pledged his candidate to the support of the entire ticket. He replied, somewhat warmly:

"I made no such pledge because I thought it was unnecessary. When a man goes before a convention it is understood that he will abide by its decisions. I do not remember whether or not Judge Gibson in his remarks made any such pledge, but it is useless for him or any of his friends to raise the technicality that he was not pledged. The placing of his name before the convention was in itself a pledge, and besides he got out printed cards on which it was stated that he was "subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention."

"I feel very sore over this thing," continued Mr. Chapman, "as I was the one who placed Judge Gibson in nomination. The way it happened was this: He came to me some days before the convention and asked me to nominate him. I told him that I was not going to the convention, and it was only after I was elected a delegate, without any effort on my part, and at the request of all the others in the delegation, that I made the speech. Since the convention I have gone repeatedly to Judge Gibson and asked him not to take this step. I begged him to go before that meeting of Saturday evening and to say that he would support the entire Republican ticket. He said: 'Now, look here, there's no use in your talking to me. You have been here seven or eight times and it's no use. I have made up my mind to run.'"

"Frank Moffitt told me to keep away from 'Old Gib.'" continued Mr. Chapman, with a smile, "but I told him I wouldn't do it. No sir, it is useless for them to raise the technicality that Gibson was unpledged, for he was pledged. He has made a big mistake, and as the one who placed him in nomination, I feel very sore."

It is generally understood that Senator Frank J. Moffitt promised Judge Gibson, several days before the convening of the Republican Convention, that, in case of the latter's defeat before that body, he (Moffitt) would use his influence to have the Democrats nominate the Judge.

CROSSED THE RUBICON.

Judge E. M. Gibson Accepts the Democratic Nomination.

Judge E. M. Gibson has "Crossed the Rubicon," as some of his friends say. He has allowed the Democrats to use him. He is their political pole, with which they expect to knock down some coveted persimmons of place.

Judge Gibson went into the Republican County Convention as a declared candidate for the nomination for Superior Judge, "Subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention." He was squarely and fairly defeated. Previously he had received at the hands of the Republican party, a clerkship at Washington; an Indian Agency; the District Attorneyship of this county and the office of Superior Judge, besides two nominations for offices for which he was beaten at the polls. Notwithstanding these favors he has written the following letter to the Democrats and the few indiscreet Republicans who have asked him to run as an independent candidate for the office of Superior Judge.

GENTLEMEN, I scarcely know how to state my answer. A great English jurist once said that the office of judge is one which no man can seek. A judge must decide questions involving not only great property interests but the liberty, and even the life, of his fellow men. Therefore, no man can properly seek to be placed in that position. In this country we have departed from that idea. The law does confer upon a judge great powers, powers that should be exercised carefully and judiciously. A judge should be free from prejudice against any class of people, but absolutely fair to all who come before him. As a judge I have faithfully endeavored to do my duty. Believing that the people looked with considerable favor upon the course I have pursued, I recently went before a convention as a candidate for that office, and, I believe, was unfairly defeated by improper methods. So many of my fellow citizens have urged me to consent to be a candidate, and knowing as I do that this is not a political office, I feel constrained to make a favorable response to your kind and flattering request, and to consent, as I now do, to submit my name to the good people of this county for their consideration at the ballot box at the ensuing election, and whatever may be the result I will not complain. The people of Alameda county have been kind to me, and my heart is full of gratitude to them. I love Oakland, and I love her people. Here is my home. Here my children have grown up from infancy and here are centered my deepest affections. And, gentlemen, if I am honored with re-election, I solemnly promise that I will serve the county faithfully. I thank you and the gentlemen acting with you, most sincerely, for the kind interest you have taken in my behalf, and I shall earnestly endeavor to conduct myself in a manner worthy of your confidence.

Judge Rosborough has also accepted the so-called "non-partisan nomination," which was tendered by a committee of citizens. Of him it may be said that he had not previously agreed to be "subject to the decision" of any convention, nor had the gentleman who placed him in nomination pledged his support to the ticket, whether he was defeated or not.

GET THERE, ELI!

Denison the Probable Senatorial Candidate From the Sixteenth.

This evening, at Hanson's Hall, West Oakland, will come the great final struggle for the Republican Senatorial nomination from the Sixteenth Senatorial district. It is generally believed that H. S. Denison will be the winner, as it is positively asserted, on good authority, that he has a majority of the First ward delegation. This, with a solid delegation from the Fourth, and a considerable strength in the outlying precincts of Ocean View, West Berkeley, Bay, and Peralta, will be sufficient to carry him through triumphantly.

There is small chance of a dark horse in the fight, as M. D. Hyde declares that he will throw his strength to Denison in the event of a third candidate appearing.

It is generally conceded that E. S. Culver will be renominated for the Assembly in his old district, the Fifty-fourth, and that J. G. McCall will be the nominee from the Fifty-third district.

Democratic Apportionment.

The Democratic County Convention has been set for the 4th of next month. There will be 193 delegates, with the following territorial apportionment: Alameda township, 18; Brooklyn township, 5; Eden township, 10; Murray township, 16; Oakland township, 21; Washington township, 10; First ward, 28; Second ward, 14; Third ward, 10; Fourth ward, 18; Fifth ward, 6; Sixth ward, 14; Seventh ward, 14. On Saturday next all the precinct clubs will meet and choose their delegates.

Mathews an Independent.

The independent itch seems to be a spreading political disease among jurists. E. G. Mathews of East Oakland, who was so thoroughly snubbed by the Brooklyn township convention, in which he received but two votes, is out as an independent candidate for Justice of the Peace.

HONOR OR TREASON.

Some Considerations Bearing On Judge Gibson's Attitude.

To the Editor of the Tribune, SIR:—If a man has principles and abides by them, the world will generally call him honest. If he wears his principles simply to further his own ends, by imposing upon others, he is treacherous and traitorous. A man who cannot follow his professed principles, even to defeat, even to loss of everything but honor, lacks the qualities which inspire respect, and which are the foundation of everything that is desirable in public place, or private intercourse. Honor and fidelity are not ideas, but living and working and inspiring facts in every community and association of life; and, unless they are incorporated into the character, as vital springs of action, society must crumble, and distrust and chaos spread their deadly shade, to blight all that is desirable in human association. These principles permeate every form of activity, religious, social, commercial, political. Wolves sometimes clothe themselves as sheep, and assess as lions, but such masquerades are rarely profitable, and always dishonorable. It occasionally happens that a man acting under the sting of a momentary loss or defeat forgets truths which are as obvious as the sun, unmoors himself from the fastenings of a lifetime and does acts which the balance of his days is too short to sufficiently repent. And on such occasions there is rarely lacking some imp of perversion and tools of Satan, to whisper into the smarting ear incentives which at another time would be spurned as vicious and monstrous, but which promise a palliation from a present smart or fancied wrong. It is only any enemy that thus tries to suggest pernicious counsels. To scold, to fret, to rebel at the thwarting of a cherished hope, never inspired respect. To suffer without flinching is manly. The new associates—pretended friends—whom adversity sends, are to be feared, their motives questioned and their counsels inspected. The chastening of old friends is more wholesome than the praises of the tribes of self-seeking adulators who endeavor to assault an enemy by fomenting treason and the abandonment of honor.

"He that hath ears to hear, let him hear."

WILL PAY HALF.

The Piedmont Company Approves of Having a Flagman.

In connection with the Council resolution asking for a flagman to be kept on the corner of Fourteenth street and San Pablo avenue, the Piedmont Company has forwarded the following reply:

"The proposition meets with our approval and we stand ready to pay one-half the expense of keeping a good flagman on the crossing as soon as you can make the same arrangement with the San Pablo Company.

DOCTORS DISAGREE.

A Merry War Between West Oakland Physicians.

FIGHTING OVER THEIR PATIENTS.

They Were the Closest of Friends and the Happiest of Partners. But Now They Do Not Speak as They Pass.

It is war to the knife between Doctors B. T. Burton and J. D. McCollum, two former partners in West Oakland, and practitioners west of Adeline street are greatly exercised lest these two former fast friends meet under the French code of honor and have it out with scalpels. Even the most intimate friends of the two medicos are at a loss how to account for the sudden estrangement between them, and cannot determine, even by means of the most perplexing mathematical calculation, why it is that the larger of two solids meeting a lesser body in a narrow hallway produces no effect upon it, though its magnetic influence is double that of the smaller and and its travels through space are much more rapid.

It remained for a TRIBUNE reporter to show why they are no longer friends. The fact is, Dr. McCollum played a sharp little trick on his partner, and the latter has determined to be revenged. Some time ago the two practitioners located in a neat little cottage on the southwest corner of Eighth and Willow streets. Dr. Burton occupied the upper portion with his family, and the two doctors received their patients in two well apportioned offices in the basement. After a time, however, they thought they could do better alone, and agreed to dissolve partnership. Dr. Burton, the original lessee, of course, expecting that his partner would vacate his house and leave him the field. But not so. The original lessee was surprised, not to say chagrined, when, a few days ago, he received notice to vacate the premises when his month was up, or thereafter pay a monthly rental of $500.

Then the war began. The two doctors do not love each other any more, and, though still occupying the house, they meet as strangers.

Dr. McCollum will still occupy the premises at 867 Willow street, but Dr. Burton will nail his shingle to the mast directly opposite the house from which he was evicted.

This morning the doctors feebly denied that they had any difficulty, but the cause of their separation was said to be the lack of attention to business by Dr. McCollum. Several years ago Dr. Burton was a rising young physician in Illinois, and one of his best friends was the Rev. Mr. McCollom, pastor of the Congregational Church in the little town in which they lived. Dr. Burton often portrayed the big fortune in his more worldly profession, and finally persuaded his friend of the cloth to go out into the world and study medicine. The advice was taken, and a few months ago Dr. McCollum graduated a full-fledged M. D. Then Dr. Burton sent for his young friend, and when he arrived in Oakland he gave him a boost by taking him into partnership in a business that paid him $1000 monthly. Dr. Burton, who was occupying the house at Eighth and Willow streets, and whose practice was entirely in West Oakland, fitted up the offices in the house, and for a time Burton & McCollum flourished.

But now comes another mutual friend on the scene. This is the Rev. J. H. J. Rice, pastor of the Chase Street Congregational Church. Mr. Rice was an old time friend of the former minister, and when he accepted a call to Oakland Dr McCollum urged his partner to leave the little cottage and take up a residence further up town. "The firm might do better," he said, "if a branch office were established within the precincts of Broadway." To this the elder doctor readily agreed, and allowed the Rev. Dr. Rice to occupy the upper portion of the house while Dr. McCollum still remained there. Dr. Burton continued to pay the rent, and to all intents and purposes was in possession of the cottage, the Rices and Dr. McCollum paying their share of the money to him.

Dr. McCollum's heart went further and further toward his old friends who lived up stairs, and further and further away from Dr. Burton and business. Finally Dr. Burton says he realized that the firm was being supported wholly by his practice, while Dr. McCollum, who is young yet, devoted more time to social pleasures than to medicine. Then Dr. Burton proposed a dissolution of co-partnership and Dr. McCollum assented. Of course Dr. Burton expected to retain the office at the house as all his practice is in West Oakland. But this is just what Dr. McCollum was fishing for, according to the former's statement. He got the house away from Burton by right of possession. Then Dr. Burton's rent was fixed at $500 a month and he was forced out.

"They can have the house if they want it," said he to-day, "but they can't ruin my practice, for I shall locate just across the street, and abandon my office up town. If it were not for blowing too much, I would show you a preamble and resolutions signed by 150 of my patients down here, asking me to remain. I suppose Dr. McCollum, after using his friends to get me out, expected to get some of my practice, but he will not succeed. I never made the statement that I would run him out of business, for I am not that kind of a man. All I object to is the method he took to get me out of the house."

Dr. McCollum was not inclined to say much of the difficulty for publication. He admitted that he had the rental of the house, and that Dr. Burton would have to vacate. Further, he thought Dr. Burton very unreasonable to bring him to California a stranger and then desert him.

Little Accidents.

Frank Johnson called at the Receiving Hospital last night to have some cuts in his face dressed. He stated that he had been thrown out of a buggy. Dr. Dunn dressed the injury.

Charles Johnson, a longshoreman, fell down the stairs at the Oakland House last night and broke his nose.

SUNDAY SPORTS.

The Results of Contests in Field and on Water.

The Colonels are climbing up the pennant ladder, and their victory over the Senators at Haight street yesterday places them within a few games of the leaders. The Colonel meant business, and he ordered his three pitchers to report at the grounds. Shaw was selected as the man to do the twirling for the Pets. Lohman, who never misses a game, did not put in an appearance and sent word that he was sick. He was, probably, suffering from the effects of that $25 imposed by the Colonel. Young Dave Levy, a brother of Captain Henry Levy, was signed by the Colonel, and so Lohman was not missed behind the bat. The Oaklands had matters all their own way, and won without an effort by a score of 13 to 3. The summary is as follows:

RUNS BY INNINGS.

| | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | |

The Senators won from Stockton Saturday by a score of 12 to 1.

HOW THEY STAND.

The Oaklands are closely pressing the Senators for first place. A few more games will make a complete change in the record providing the Oaklands are winners. The record to date is as follows:

|---|---|---|---|---|

SOME STRATEGY.

How a Virginia City Mother Secured Ease in Life.

Enterprise.

Last spring a young lady of Oakland, California, came to the Comstock on a visit to friends, the acquaintance of whom she had formed at school. That is, a Comstock girl while attending school in Oakland had been welcomed at the home of an Oakland girl, who had made her school days pleasant, and nothing would do but a visit to Virginia by the young lady from Oakland.

Her coming was heralded in the social circle in which the Virginia girl moves, for, be it known, that in Virginia the social circles are as closely defined as the rings in Malebolge, where no spirit moving in one can even hope to converse with another, except after due process of expiation. Upon her arrival a regular programme of entertainment was made out, which included a trip in the mines, two visits to Carson friends, buggy rides, a german, and several private receptions in town.

She proved to be an attractive, fascinating, and withal, a sensible girl. She had hands as remarkably beautiful in complexion and form that she was seldom spoken of without reference being made to them, and here really begins the story.

Miss Ethel ——, who had been to one of the parties given in honor of the Oakland girl, remarked to her mother the next morning: "I wish I knew what she uses to make her hands so pretty. I would do anything to have hands like hers. But I dasn't ask her; it would be so vulgar."

Mamma—I will find out for you, dear.

Ethel—Oh, you musn't ask her!

Mamma—No; I will write to a friend in Oakland who knows her well.

Mamma that evening wrote to her friend: "Please transcribe the following in your own handwriting and send it back to me by return mail:" "Miss ——— washes the dishes and wrings out the clothes when at home, and under no consideration will she permit the servants of the house to do that work. The effect on her hands is marvelous."

Mamma thumps the piano now immediately after breakfast instead of Ethel, while she is beautifying her hands.

NYM CRINKLE'S OPINION.

The Great Critic Saw Sullivan and Sized Him Up.

Honest Hearts and Willing Hands was the title to the play, and John L. went through his part very creditably.

At the end of the third act the star was called before the curtain, and instantly there appeared a procession of ushers carrying flowers down the aisles. Wreaths, baskets, garlands, caskets, were heaped upon the stage, and the lusty star began the Herculean work of removing them.

When they were all carried off he came down to the footlights, and when a vacuum in the noise appeared he hove in, so to speak, this neat little address:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I thank you for your kind appreciation which you have shown tonight of my effort to please on this the first attempt in this line of business. I hope I shall be able to merit your further praise, and, as I said before, I thank you and remain yours to command, John L. Sullivan."

It may be said that Mr. Sullivan was quite as good as the play. He has a rich, manly voice, and uses it without hesitancy or break. He has learned his part carefully, and executes it with formal precision, but without a spark of emotion of any kind. Most of his serious monosyllables were received with laughter, but he preserved throughout a stolid composure, and kept his eye on the packed gallery for encouragement.

Approximate Contentment.

Washington Post.

"Wuz yer ebbah contented?" asked one sable Washingtonian of another.

"I dunno ez I wer ebbah zackly contented," was the reply, "but I hez felt ez ef I couldn' eat ernother mout' full of watah million."

A Morning Paper.

There's a new newspaper in Kansas called Ham and Eggs. It should never appear oftener than once a week.—Washington Star. Published every Friedday, probably.—Boston Bulletin. It appears at the breakfast table, of course.

PETRIFIED PIGS.

A Pair of Porkers and a Field of Corn Become Stone.

Memphis Appeal.

The people of the eastern portion of Claiborne county, Tennessee, are excited over a remarkakable occurrence, which took place there on Sunday evening last. It is one of the most marvelous occurrences ever heard of, and it will prove to be a problem over which scientific minds may wrestle for some time to come.

Edgar Ramsey is a farmer who lives five miles from Lick Skillet. He arrived in Middlesborough yesterday afternoon. The story he told would not find believers at first, but since then it has been proven that he told nothing but the truth. His statement is as follows:

"Last Sunday afternoon I noticed what appeared to be a large, green-looking cloud coming from a westerly direction toward my house. It was a long distance off, and the rain was falling heavily. Shortly afterward it became very cold, in fact so cold that I went indoors, lit a big fire, and put on a big heavy coat. When I came out again the big green cloud was almost over the house, and the air was as cold as on a winter day. I watched the cloud for a few minutes and then hail commenced falling and I was forced to go indoors again. Inside of half an hour it became as dark as night, and I never felt so funny and heavy in all my life before. The wind howled and the hail fell in stones as big as eggs. All this lasted twenty minutes, and then the sky cleared up and I felt more like myself again.

"An hour later I was sitting with my wife near the fire when I heard the galloping of a horse coming at full speed, and when I went out to see who it was, there stood Jake Warren, a neighbor farmer, who lives about a mile and a quarter from me. He was as pale as a ghost, and was trembling all over. It took him over ten minutes to commence to tell me what he had to say, and as he was talking I thought he was crazy.

"He stated that a big green cloud had come over his place, and that something which looked like balls of fire had fallen all around his house. He had five acres of corn growing in a field next to the house. After the storm had cleared away he went to see what damage had been done. He saw that some corn had been blown down, and, entering the field, he found every stock turned to stone. There were two fine hogs in the field, and they, too, were petrified and standing there as if cut of solid rock. Myself and wife thought the man was raving mad, but induced him to remain over until morning, when we promised to visit his place with him. That we did, and what we saw will be remembered so long as we both live. There was the corn blown down, but every stock of it was petrified. It was not as hard as granite, but it appeared to be more like soft stone. I took my knife and cut it, and it became powder. The ears were very hard, and they could not be broken with the hand. The leaves were brittle, and if you struck them they would break like glass. The hogs were there, too, looking natural enough, but they, too, were as hard as stone."

Yesterday afternoon George E. Henry, of this city, John Rogers, Captain L. B. Hull, ex-Deputy Marshal, and several others, rode over the mountains into Tennessee to see for themselves if the things were really there as represented. Captain Hull, ex-United States Deputy Marshal, makes the following statement:

"We went over this morning. I doubted the story on starting, but thought I'd try it, anyhow. We found the Warrens' farm about seven miles from the Gap, and there, sure enough, was the cornfield completely petrified. The stalks were somewhat blown down, but they seemed completely turned to stone. The two hogs were there also, and they looked like they were carved out of rock. It was the strangest sight I ever saw, and I can't begin to describe the thing. There were a number of men guarding the field with Winchester rifles, and they wouldn't let us go into it. They only let us go to the fence. We could have touched some of the corn stalks and could see the hogs, but the men refused positively to let us go any further than the fence. The men wouldn't say why they would not let people go into the field, but I presume they were afraid people would break the corn stalks to pieces. There was quite a crowd there looking at the thing, and everyone was thoroughly dumfounded with what they saw."

This statement is vouched for by a number of others, and naturally there is considerable excitement. Every horse in the valley has been engaged for the next several days by parties who intend to visit the place.

JEWELS AND LACES.

"Oh, girl with the jewelled fingers,
Oh, girl with the laces rare!"

What are your jewels and what are your laces worth to you if, from undergoing the trying ordeals which fashionable society imposes on its devotees, enough to test the physical strength and endurance of the most robust, you break down, lose your health and become a physical wreck, as thousands do from such causes?

Under such circumstances you would willingly give all your jewels and all your laces to regain lost health. This you can do if you will but resort to the use of that great restorative known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Thousands of grateful women bless the day it was made known to them.

For all derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to women, it is the only remedy sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

An invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system. For feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. One a dose. Sold by druggists. 25 cents a vial.

Judge Gibson's Position.

SUPERIOR JUDGE.

E. M. GIBSON, PRESENT INCUMBENT, IS a candidate for the office of Superior Judge, subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention.

That was an announcement to be found in the columns of any of the papers of Alameda county prior to the recent Republican Convention. In that card Judge Gibson proclaimed himself a candidate "subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention." He now repudiates that pledge with a weak and childish allegation of "improper methods" to which he attributes his defeat. He does not attempt to specify the nature of these "improper methods," and, in fact, he cannot. His plea is the merest subterfuge, which deceives nobody, not even himself. It is almost inconceivable that the itch for office should be so strong as to induce a man to place himself in a position outside of the ranks of honorable men.

If Judge Gibson had never held office and enjoyed its emoluments because of the support accorded him by the Republican party, his present position would still be dishonorable. How much more when ingratitude is added to dishonor. Judge Gibson was made District Attorney of Alameda county by the votes of Republicans, and held that office for five years. He was made Superior Judge by the nomination of the Republican party, and has held that office for nearly six years. He was nominated for Mayor of Oakland and for Railroad Commissioner by the same party, and he held an appointment as Indian Commissioner, given him by a Republican Executive. These are the leading facts of Judge Gibson's political career, and we leave the people to draw their own conclusions.

It is not a pleasure to say these things. We have hesitated about saying them because we hoped it would not be necessary to say them at all. We hoped to be able to retain our respect for Judge Gibson.

Questions for Judge Gibson.

For well nigh twenty-three years, E. M. Gibson has lived upon the favors of the Republican party. For eleven of these years he has been kept in office by the Republicans of this county—five years as District Attorney and six as Superior Judge. There are few offices in the gift of the people for which he has not asked, and few which the Republicans have not given him for the asking. During the short period of his residence here, when he has not occupied an elective position, he has successively appeared before a workingmen's convention seeking the place of City Attorney and has been defeated. By the party he now repudiates he has been given the nomination of Mayor of Oakland and Railroad Commissioner, and both times has failed of election. He has by authorized cards declared that his candidacy for the Superior Judgeship was subject not to the "popular will" as expressed in a petition signed by some seventy Democrats and some ten Republicans, not to the "supreme privilege of the people to chose whomsoever they pleased," but that it was subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention. In furtherance of his published utterances, Judge Gibson went before that convention and was fairly defeated. For the first time in his history he did not get for the asking, and within a week after the adjournment of that convention he is a declared independent candidate for the judgeship. Judge Gibson is nothing, if not a politician. He knows, and no one can teach him, the full meaning and import of the step he has taken. He cannot offer the excuse of insufficient thought or over-hasty action. By his own admission he has "thought deeply" upon the subject, and he has reduced his conclusions to writing. Something, however, he has omitted to state in his letter of acceptance, and these things it is fair that the people should know. THE TRIBUNE here calls upon Judge Gibson to tell them.

In your letter of acceptance you speak of unfair defeat and improper methods. Is it not a fact that, before the Republican Convention met, even before the primaries were held, you had been approached by Democrats to allow your name to be used in the event of your defeat, as you are now allowing it to be used, and that you held the matter under favorable consideration?

Is it not a fact that, while you talk of being an independent candidate upon a non-partisan ticket, you are only a candidate because you have received assurances upon which you rely, that the Democratic Convention will endorse you?

Is it not a fact that, knowing the ill success which attended the independent candidacy of Judge Crane, who neither sought nor obtained Democratic endorsement, and, knowing as you do that the Republican majority in this county is larger now than it was then, you never would run as an independent candidate without the hope, expectation or promise, held out to you by the Times of its party support?

Is not your candidacy, stripped to its naked facts, but an "understanding" that you, in consideration of receiving the Democratic nomination after having been refused office, for the first time in your life, by the Republicans, will take with you into your new party such votes as you may win from the party of your former allegiance, and, careless to friendship, forgetful of favors, lost to gratitude, and indifferent to all but self, seek to imperil the chances of the whole ticket of the party which has supported you for years, and before which, less than a week ago, you appeared asking new favors?

And finally, if the Democrats should take you at your expressed word, and, nominating, as they will do, honorable men from their own party, leave you to your self-sought "independent candidacy," what would you then think of this, your last political move?

The Princely Pugilist.

Whether Prince George of Wales did, or did not, get into a row, in a more or less reputable quarter of Montreal, as correspondent O'Brien stated, seems to be a moot point. That the report has disquieted his worthy old grandmother is, however, is beyond all peradventure, and there bids fair to be a nice diplomatic how-d'ye-do about the affair. And yet, the Queen has no business to make such a fuss over the little affair, for two good and sufficient reasons. In the first place, both the Prince of Wales, "Georgie's" worthy sire, and his Grace of Edinburgh, "Georgie's" uncle, when they were of a like age with the young sailor Prince, were known to be two of the best boxers of their weight in London, and, on more than one occasion, distinguished themselves by fighting hackmen, bargees, and street porters in Piccadilly, Wapping, and the Haymarket, in the small hours of the morning; and it is not of record that their august mother took any notice whatever of those little escapades. In the second place, the Prince was simply acting like any other "Jack ashore" at the time he got into the "shindy" with the Montreal "toughs," and had to take the risks just as an ordinary blue-jacket would. Few people who appreciate sturdy manhood will think the less of Prince George, if the story be found, to be true. Had the same report been circulated about his elder brother, "Collars-and-Cuffs," the heir-apparent to the British throne, not a soul would have believed it—not even Queen Victoria.

E. B. POND, John P. Dunn and the other Democratic orators are busily explaining the merits of their financial pledge "tied at both ends," but they are singularly silent about their pledge to spend $250,000 in giving everybody free text books. It is reasonable to inquire, at which end is the pledge tied, or is it tied at all? The presence of two inconsistent financial pledges in the same platform, gives rise to the belief that neither are meant, and that both are simply a demagogue's bid for votes.

THE Republican demonstration on Saturday night was most creditable to Oakland. No other city in the State could, on short notice, turn out an army so stalwart and handsome as that presented by the Alliance boys and the Army and Navy League, and the enthusiasm shown at the meeting and the crowded condition of the hall were most encouraging. It was a royal welcome.

CURRENT POLITICS.

Mayor Glascock opened the Democratic campaign at Napa on Saturday night.

The Santa Cruz Republicans have nominated W. H. Galbraith for the Assembly.

E. A. Freeman was nominated for the Assembly by the Republicans of Amador.

Arthur McEwen's political forecast is Colonel Markham will probably be elected Governor. Stanford will be re-elected to the Senate.

The Republicans of the Fifth Congress District nominated James D. Byrnes of San Mateo to run against P. J. Clunie. Mr. Byrnes is State Senator from San Mateo.

Governor Stevenson of Nevada, died yesterday of typhoid fever at the age of 61 years. He will be buried in Mountain View Cemetery.

The Republicans of Santa Clara county have nominated W. C. Bailey for the State Senate, and E. E. Dow of Los Gatos, James R. Lowe of San Jose and George H. Hesse, of Gilroy for the Assembly.

In a private letter to a friend in this city Representative Morrow says among other things: By the way how do things look in McKenna's district? But I suppose that is an idle inquiry, as the district is strongly Republican, and he deserves well of it and of the State. The McKinley bill protects every industry, oranges, raisins, prunes, wine, wool, wheat, hops, quicksilver and borax. All are protected to such a degree as to inevitably increase the prosperity of these industries, and it is just and deserved praise of Mr. McKenna to say this is due to a great extent to his ability and influence. He ought to be re-elected by an increased majority. He has a natural aptitude for legislation, which, added to the experience derived from actual service, places him in the front rank of those who direct proceedings. He is a valuable member for his district and for the State. Moreover, the administration is Republican and there are, therefore, obvious political reasons why there should be no reduction of a majority in a Republican district. I do not know that there is any occasion for me to write this to you. I am sure that Mr. McKenna's interest will not suffer or be neglected, but on the contrary our good friends will see to it that he is given a handsome majority in Alameda county.

Yesterday morning, at high mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, the chief features of the selections was the singing of "Cujus Animam," from the "Stabat Mater," by A. B. Caulfield, during the offertory. Mr. Caulfield has an excellent voice, and on this occasion he fairly surpassed himself.

Fox will deliver an address upon "Fraternal Organizations; Their Relations to the State." A musical progamme will also be rendered, in which E. F. Filton, H. A. Melvin, Mrs. H. P. Carleton, H. A. Redfield and others will take part.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hewes (nee Lathrop) returned to San Francisco from their extended trip abroad. Immediately after their marriage, which was solemnized about eighteen months ago at the residence of Senator and Mrs. Stanford on California street, they left for the East, en route for Europe, where they have since devoted their time to visiting all points of interest. Mr. Hewes was formerly a member of the City Council of Oakland.

A pleasant euchre party was given by Mrs. F. T. Keelar, of 932, Filbert street, on Friday evening. After the prizes had been awarded refreshments were served. The first lady's prize was won by Mrs. I. L. Cavasso; second, Miss Allie Fikes of San Jose. The first gentleman's prize was won by George Baker; second, L. Babb. Among those present were: Mrs. F. T. Keelar, Mr. T. Keelar, Miss Allie Fikes, Mrs. O. Artman, Mr. and Mrs. L. Babb, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Summers, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Cavasso, Mr. F. S. Briggs, Mr. George Baker.

On Saturday night Mrs. M. B. Augustine of Peralta Heights gave a "Puritan party," in honor of the 12th birthday of her son Julius. The guests were dressed in the costumes of the Puritans, and each was presented with a pretty souvenir of the evening. The grounds were hung with lanterns and the house beautifully decorated. During the evening there was a stereopticon entertainment and games. Delicate refreshments were served. Among the present were: Mrs. Kemp, Mrs. Hunter, M. G. C. Edholm, Miss Alice Augustine, William Hutton, Rowena Stevenson, Grace Hostetter, Edith Williams, Minnie Stevenson, Bessie Russell, Minnie Sutherland, Mabel Mason, Verie Nell, Alice Conklin, Edith Lang, Cornelia Stow, Lottie Thomas, Charlie Stowe, George Gray, Nesbit Kempt, Fred Conklin, Vere Hunter, F. Sonnberger, C. De Wolfe, Charlton Edholm, Birdie Chase, Millie Wheaton.

The Dam Deluged.

This morning one of the water pipes concealed somewhere in that irregular pile of dirt, known as the Twelfth street dam, burst and filled many of the deep cavities in the roadway with water and mud, thus giving the East Oaklanders a sample of the inconvenience which they will be compelled to bear during the coming winter.

Art Notice.

The California Art Institute, of 911 Linden street, has opened its fall term, where they are prepared to give instructions in all branches of art. Ladies' and gentlemen's evening classes in drawing from 7 to 9; terms, 50 cents per lesson. Class days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. N. B.—Visitors are welcome.

Hear the Lecture.

Marie Farrington will lecture tonight at Upper Hamilton Hall under the auspices of the Central Nationalist Club on the subject, "Co-operation Among the French Peasantry." Admission will be free.

DR. MARY H. KINNEY

Has Removed Her Office and Residence to the Northwest Corner of Tenth and Clay Streets.

Mrs. Dr. Kinney has leased that beautiful building on the corner of Tenth and Clay streets, which she will use as her office and residence. The basement floor has been converted into a sanitarium, with special departments for vapor baths, massage treatment, and electricity. The vapor bath department is equipped with a large L shaped, zinc-lined, steam tub. The patient, or bather, is placed into this tub and, with a gradual increasing temperature, is allowed to remain until the pores are well opened, then they are treated with a brisk brushing or sponging, then placed into a metallic tub, where they are well sponged, and thence to the massage table, where the massage treatment is administered. Each tub is separately divided by heavy curtains. J. Edward Reed of Boston is in charge of the gentleman's department. Mr. Reed has had a great deal of experience in giving this treatment, so valuable for the cure of chronic and nervous diseases.

The ladies' department is arranged similar, but entirely separate, which is under the supervision of Mrs. Keach, who so long has been with Dr. Burk, and who for so thoroughly understands the treatment of massage, electricity, and the giving of all kinds of baths.

A NEW KINDERGARTEN.

Opened To-day at Mrs. Blake's Oakland Seminary.

Mrs. Blake has added a kindergarten to her Oakland seminary, and the same was organized this afternoon. Competent teachers are in charge, and the school promises a good success. Next week a "kitchen garden will be established, where permanent expressions in practical housekeeping will be received by the little girls." A most commendable enterprise.

"What a blind man saw in Paris." Hamilton Hall Monday September 22nd.

Will be found an excellent remedy for sick headache, Carter's Little Liver Pills. Thousands of letters from people who have used them prove this fact. Try them.

If you have a painful sense of fatigue, find your duties irksome, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will brace you up, make you strong and vigorous.

Society News.

A Jackson street belle, just from the East, says it is the fad to leave a box of fine chocolate on the table in one's drawing room. She declares that those made by Lehnhardt on Fourteenth street, are the only chocolates she would have, as they are so fresh, and far superior to any she ate in the East.

Address by William H. Mills at the State Fair.

THE REMEDY FOR OVER-PRODUCTION.

A General Review of the Condition of Agriculture—The Labor Problem Considered—Present Needs.

Hon. Wm. H. Mills delivered the annual address at the State Fair this year. It was of unusual interest and furnished much food for thought.

After reviewing conditions of early days he said that when success in the search for gold ceased to be as hazardous as a lottery, and successful mining became dependent upon more thoughtful and intelligent methods, for many years the attention of the world was withdrawn from California. This attention was revived with the stock speculative period, the most injurious period in our history. During the many years of its pernicious prevalence our best enterprise and a large portion of our capital were employed in the discovery and operation of silver mines. In spite of all these, however, the good work of creating a commonwealth, founded upon the enduring industries invited by the fertility of the soil, had gone on, and since the subsidence of the speculative period, has made year by year gratifying progress. Great commonwealths cannot be founded upon the exceptional and the unusual. The wealth of every State and every nation is found in the industrial capacity of its people, and in the direction of this industrial capacity in producing the natural and legitimate objects of human desire. It is, therefore, fairly within the lines of reasonable representation to say that the foundations of California, which are to endure and are to grow into an empire of wealth and population, were laid less than twenty years ago. The real and enduring industries of our State are less than twenty years of age.

A SIGNIFICANT FACTOR.

The doctrine that economic communication may become the equivalent of physical contiguity is the basis of all we hope for. It is the most far-reaching and significant factor in the future of California. Three days' ordinary wages in England will pay the cost of transportation on one year's supply of breadstuffs for an individual, from the most inaccessible and distant wheat-producing zones of the world. The cost grows less as you approach the seaboard. Breadstuffs are carried distances which are practically unlimited along the commercial pathways of the globe. Fruits, green and canned, are exchanged with every portion of the earth, and rice is practically as cheap in one portion of the world as another. Livestock is carried across continents and seas, and live chickens are transported economically 3000 miles, and dairy products accompany all other articles of commerce. If ten miles from a market on a water course was the radius of the profitable area of production of garden stuffs a century ago, and 3000 miles is the length of the radius now; the countries at the end of that 3000-mile line are as near to the markets as the gardens were at ten miles. Wheat produced in California may be consumed in London at a lower rate of cost than breadstuffs produced within thirty miles of that city 100 years ago. When the cost of transportation comes to be applied to the retail cost of any article, it becomes inappreciable; for illustration, a pound of wheat in Liverpool has less than a quarter of a cent added to its value by transportation, even when produced in the most inaccessible wheat fields of the world. The lands devoted to the production of cereals, then, in these most distant fields are in direct competition with the lands devoted to like production in the markets where cereals are consumed. * *

The ultimate operation of this principle will be to produce every article where its production affords the greatest reward to the labor devoted to its production. No fiscal policy or tariff device will very long delay, nor eventually wholly prevent, the universal sway of this principle of production. Each object of human desire will be produced in the country where its production costs the minimum of human effort.

Figures of Overland freight rates for the past nine years were quoted as showing a tendency in transportation to base all rates upon the relation of markets to each other rather than the distance in miles between them. It is within the bounds of reasonable probability that within a few years this tendency will have so far asserted itself that the only question will be the relation between the points of production and points of consumption, with scarcely a reference to the distance in miles which separate them.

THE OVERPRODUCTION CRY.

Our Eastern friends, even many of our own citizens, are constantly predicting the speedy approach of a condition of overproduction. This apprehension, both at home and abroad, has exerted a strong influence in retarding our growth and development. It is time the matter was placed at rest, and the question which confronts us at the outset of its discussion is, What are the facts and what are the most reasonable inferences to be drawn from these facts? Enterprising men everywhere look to the future with the most serene confidence, and when that confidence is challenged we find it to rest in the great common-sense proposition that no country has ever yet been ruined by its excessive fertility or the expanded possibilities of its climate.

The vast diversity of agriculture and horticulture in California places our industries in competition with the industries of nearly every climate and zone of the habitable earth. In this diversity our safety resides. As a wheat producing country alone we would share the vicissitudes of the wheat zones of the earth. Failure of crops or of prices would inflict upon us constantly recurring years of loss, but our climate admits the production of every object of cultivation grown on the entire face of Europe. The list embraces many articles which have but a limited area of production on the earth, and, fortunately for us, these articles are in the list of those which cannot be produced by the countries sustaining the largest populations of the world.

CITRUS FRUIT AND RAISINS.

Let us take first the question of citrus fruit. That industry in California is yet in its infancy, notwithstanding it has long since passed its experimental stage. Citrus fruits are now produced in commercial quantities. Thirty years ago there was imported into the United States 800,000 boxes of citrus fruit. Last year Florida contributed to supply the demand 600,000 boxes and California contributed 780,000 boxes. Thus the country into which thirty years ago were imported 80,000 boxes of citrus fruit produced within its own borders last year 1,380,000 boxes. What were the facts as to importation in the same year? From the report of the Senate Finance Committee, compiled for the use of the Senate of the United States, in the discussion of the McKinley bill, and gathered from the most authentic sources, to-wit: the Custom House returns of the United States, it is shown and declared that in 1889 there were imported into the United States of citrus fruits 3,354,963 boxes and 113,927 barrels. Thus, notwithstanding the contribution of Florida and California to the volume of supply, the importation of citrus fruits into the United States was more than eleven times that noted prior to the beginning of home production. In the face of these facts, is it competent for any man to predict over-production of oranges and lemons in California and Florida? The entire demand of the United States thirty years ago was imported. When this country becomes a producer to the extent of 1,380,000 boxes the importation in the same time has arisen to nearly 4,000,000 boxes, thus constantly widening the margin in favor of the home producer and forever silencing all prophesies of over-production.

In 1874 we shipped East 200 pounds of raisins. In 1888 we shipped 18,000,000 pounds, and the extent to which we failed to supply the home market is fully illustrated by the report of the Finance Committee, already quoted, wherein it is declared that there was actually imported into the United States in the year 1889 34,39[illegible],500 pounds of raisins. When, therefore, California has trebled its present product of raisins, it will barely equal the importation. To state this in a different form: The volume of importation is twice that of the product of California. Since California contributes to the demand 18,000,000 at the present rate of production, and since there was, in round numbers, 35,000,000 pounds imported, there is, on the present basis of consumption, a perfectly safe and certain demand in the United States for three times the vineyard capacity now existing. When, therefore we are told by the Eastern and home objector that the industry of raisin growing will be overdone, let us remember that the demand will increase, and that the present demand in the United States is three times our present capacity for production. There is, therefore, room for three vineyards for every one now cultivated in California.

How does the case stand as to grapes and prunes? These will be considered together, simply because they were treated together in the report of the Finance Committee to the Senate. The importation of these two articles in 1889 was 47,493,210 pounds. Are we in danger of over-producing grapes and prunes while the fiscal reports of the nation exhibit this vast volume of importation? Take even the case of lumber. Those but partially informed will naturally conclude that the forests of our country supply all our home demands, and yet in 1889 the report already quoted states that there was imported into the United States 537,000,000 feet of lumber, Custom House valuation of which was $1,050,000. Of olive oil there was imported into the United States 454,000 gallons, of sugar 9,128,000, and of wool 132,817,456 pounds. Are our industries likely to be overdone while this vast volume of importation of the industries of other countries must be availed of to supply the home demand?

DRIED FRUIT SHIPMENTS.

Let it be noted that in 1880 we shipped 590,000 pounds of dried fruit, and that the shipments of 1889 reach over 33,000,000 of pounds, or sixty-five times the volume of the shipment of 1880. Thus we supplied to the markets of the East in 1889 sixty-five times the annual volume supplied eight years previous. Of green fruit, the amount of shipments in 1880 was 5,150,000 pounds, and this had arisen in 1889 to over 50,000,000 pounds, or ten times the amount shipped nine years before. Of citrus fruits in 1882 we shipped 917,000 pounds, and in 1889, seven years later, the amount had risen to fully 20,000,000 pounds. In 1880 the shipment of raisins was less than 800,000 pounds, and in 1889 it had reached 18,000,000 pounds. The shipment of vegetables in 1880 was 2,500,000 pounds, while in 1887 it reached the enormous quantity of 33,000,000 pounds. The commercial forces and the industrial conditions, which have conferred upon us this vast increment of exportation, are still actively in existence. The analogies all point toward a still greater increase.

The facts are that the importation of the products of California have constantly augmented, that the shipments of our products have increased year by year, and that increase has been attended by a constant decrease of rates. We find in 1886 one carload of California fruit went to the markets east of Chicago and was sold at a loss. We find that up to this time in the year 1890, and only four years from the former date, 500 carloads were sold in the markets of Boston and New York at the highest price ever realized. There is not a single statement of fact which may be quoted in justification of any apprehension that any of our industries are in danger of being overdone. On the contrary, we are contributing to human necessities, producing the legitimate objects of human desire, and we are producing these under conditions so favorable to their production as in themselves to afford a guarantee against successful competition.

OUR PRESENT NEEDS.

While the foregoing relates chiefly to the production of fruit, the conditions influencing other products, and having a direct bearing upon their future, are completely analogous. It certainly cannot be said of our State that its industries are overcrowded, when its products are imported into the United States in a vast volume. It cannot be said that the industries of our State are overcrowded, when it is remembered that during the year 1889 we imported into California for the consumption of our own people $800,000 worth of eggs and from $150,000 to $200,000 worth of poultry. We are large importers of butter, of lard, and of pork. And beyond all this, we are very large producers of raw materials, which, sooner or later, will be economically and profitably manufactured here. The exportation of raw material, to be made valuable by added labor and skill in other countries, is a process of impoverishment. Keeping in view that we are now addressing our Eastern friends and answering Eastern inquirers, we may say to them in perfect good faith that our manufactures are largely in their infancy, and that the conditions here favor the successful prosecution to manufactures. With respect of manufactures, we are, perhaps, behind any or all of the Eastern States. Our people are beginning to realize this. We are beginning to understand that when we ship away from our State raw material to be tanned into leather, and the leather to be converted into footwear, we are shipping from us the opportunity of creating wealth, an amount which is readily measured by the difference between the value of the raw hides and the value of the footwear manufactured from the raw hides. Likewise, the wool which is raised by our people is shipped in the staple, and we lose the opportunity of adding labor and skill, which would give us the value of the cloth manufactured.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

The coming of additional population to California to engage in any pursuit or undertaking, of any nature whatever, is an unmixed good. The chief obstacle in the Pacific States to the successful prosecution of all enterprise is the sparsity of population. There are economies of production, possible to large populations, which are unknown to thinly settled countries. The best market for the products of every country is the home market. Our population is estimated at 1,300,000. Let us for a moment anticipate the result if that population were doubled, and the population of California stood in the census report at 2,500,000. Would the natural resources of the country be inadequate to the employment of its people? In the first place, we would have an accession of 1,200,000 home consumers. We would have double our present capital. We would have double the supporting population for every species of industry and enterprise. The local rates of transportation would at once descend, because the same fixed charges would answer for the new as well as for the present demand; and the net result of that augmentation of population, that enterprise and capital, that addition to every element of civilized life, would be an increase in geometrical rather than arithmetical ratio; the products of all employments would be more than doubled, and the opportunity and condition of the labor of California improved. The chief difficulty of the present is the circumscribed character of labor's opportunity.

The vineyard owned by Senator Stanford is the largest in the world. It covers 3900 acres of bearing vines. It is operated under a single control, and is the largest operation of its kind known. The statistical facts relating to it would be the equivalent of statistical facts relating to thirty-nine vineyards of 100 acres each, and the facts are as follows: Exclusive of any labor employed in planting, or grafting old vines, the operations of the vineyard require the labor of 135 men for six months; that is the maximum requirement of the period of cultivation: then comes the vintage. This requires the steady employment of 500 men every part of two months, but for three weeks of that period the demand will be for 700 men. For steady annual employment but seventy men are required. Here we have a minimum of annual employment equal to seventy men, for the period of cultivation 135 men, and a maximum during the vintage of 700 men. The maximum is ten times the minimum in this case. There are about 200,000 acres of bearing vineyard in this State. Carrying the proportions derived from an exhibit of the great vineyard into the entire vineyard interests of the State and the 200,000 acres of vineyard in this State would give an annual employment for 3500 men. It will at once be seen that if grape growing was the sole industry of the State, the 3500 men who would find in it steady employment, would be the only available labor for the vintage, and they would be grossly inadequate. As has already been shown, the vintage requires ten times as many men as the industry affords annual employment. It would be impossible to have the labor of nine men available for a few months in the vintage season for one man who might find steady employment. The value of a diversified industry comes into view, and with the accession of populations industries become more diversified.

With us the diversity of field culture enables us to achieve our present measure of success, but we are under serious disadvantage with respect of labor. This disadvantage, however, is rapidly passing away, but the existing condition plainly invites intelligent industry. For the past ten years the conditions of the labor market have been growing better. The influx of the Chinese has been permanently and effectively arrested. The increase of manufactures which accompanies the growth of the State, offers with the lapse of each year more steady and more profitable employment to labor.

OUR ARABLE LANDS.

The question of the proportion of the arable land in the State of California to the entire acreage has been much discussed. As now admitted to be applicable to the varying conditions of the different portions of the State, the area of arable land in the State may be presented as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| San Joaquin Valley (acres) | 6,845,280 |
| Sacramento Valley | 5,595,720 |
| Coast Valleys, including Salinas, Napa, Russian River and Santa Clara | 5,000,000 |
| Lands lying between the alluvial lands of the Sacramento Valley and the San Joaquin Valley and below the line of an equal elevation at 2000 feet | 6,000,000 |
| Between the line of an equal elevation at from 2000 to 4000 feet | 7,000,000 |
| Santa Barbara, Los Angeles and San Diego coast climate | 3,000,000 |
| Total area in acres | 33,444,000 |

The irrigable area of the San Joaquin Valley by definite ascertainment is 5,545,285 acres. In a large proportion of this area there is sufficient annual rainfall to mature annual crops of cereals, but the acreage above shown as irrigable, is irrigable from the water-shed of the western flank of the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

The acreage of the Sacramento valley is 5,595,720 acres. This entire acreage receives sufficient rainfall to mature annual crops of cereals. The Sacramento and the San Joaquin valleys together comprise 12 per cent of the entire acreage of this State.

There is no portion of California which would not be greatly benefited by the development of systems of irrigation. Reduced to cultivation by systems of irrigation, the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys could be occupied by 20,000,000 of people without exceeding the density of the population of the Valley of the Po.

Generalizing, we have a population of 1,200,000 inhabitants, occupying a territorial area of 157,000 square miles, in which is embraced 33,444,000 acres of arable land. Upon a less area, in the Empire of Japan, 35,000,000 people find subsistence, and are living in a state of plenty, which admits of the development of all the higher attributes of civilization. In the Valley of the Po, in area 330,000 acres less than the arable extent of the Sacramento valley, seven millions of people find profitable employment for their industries.

REGARDING LAND VALUES.

The average value of agricultural lands in the Sacramento Valley has not yet reached $25 an acre. The more fertile alluvial lands, suitable for growing fruits, and in the localities where the fruit is early, and where the environment is peculiarly favorable to fruit growing, are held at a valuation of from $50 to $75 an acre. * * * The lands held at $150 an acre in California are cheaper than any lands within the boundaries of any of the five great Western States at $36. It is, however, not an easy task to justify this statement to the full comprehension of the intending immigrant, or to secure complete acceptance of its truth; but it is clearly within the knowledge of the gentlemen of the Board of Agriculture that lands in California which have a ready market value of $150 an acre, are capable of producing a far better rate of interest on that investment than any lands which may be obtained in the corn, wheat, and pork regions of the West at one-third that figure. When it is understood that lands, which may be purchased for $50 an acre are easily susceptible of becoming worth three or four times that sum, and that lands valued at $100 per acre may readily become worth $500 an acre, the intending immigrant will be longer deterred from casting his lot with us, because the number of his acres must be diminished. The true standard of estimation of the value of land is not by any unit of area, but by the unit of fertility, and by the standard of units relating to the possibility of a higher use for the land. Acres may express the extent of surface, but when value is under consideration, climatic possibilities and fertility are the controlling factors. The true method of determining values is by productiveness rather than surface extent.

REDDICK.

A Pen Picture From a Democratic Point of View.

Arthur McEwen writes: I had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Reddick, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, make his first speech in the metropolis. Mr. Reddick has a good presence. He is tall and clean-shaven, with a ruddy, mobile face that suggests Colonel Ingersoll's. He is an earnest, "fighting," manly speaker on the stump, who experiences an undisguised joy in thumping the enemy. Though his hair is as silvery as a speech of Senator Jones of Nevada, he is yet in his forties, and shows a vigor altogether out of keeping with his venerable appearance. He went for the Democrats at once, and the sharp satire of some of his points brought down the house. The silence of the San Jose platform as to the public schools and pensioning the veterans engaged his attention. He handled the first neglect with a lawyer's skill, asking whether the dumbness was owing to a perception that education made young men Republicans, or to an influence which could be surmised, but might as well not be spoken of. The audience took the hint as quickly as Mr. Pixley himself might have done, and reddened its hands with applause. Though the Democrats were voiceless about the veterans, they were awake on the subject of the National Guard, who should, they held, be "fostered and cherished." Mr. Reddick managed this subject with considerable humor. Why was it necessary for the Democracy to rise up in defense of the National Guard? Was that gallant band of warriors in posse beleaguered by the Republican hordes and in danger of annihilation unless the Democratic army in gray came to their relief?

When Mr. Reddick sat down he did so as a distinct favorite of his audience. He came from Calaveras, and was plainly proud of it. You could see the old Californian in him, and the freedom of his style won him liking. There has been a disposition to guy Reddick because of his want of fame. But he is a man, and a good deal of a man. It is patent he is one of the strong personalities of his habitat. He has character and force and a warm side to him. You can easily imagine him making a night of it and being the chief figure at the table. There is good leather in Reddick. Before the tussle is over he will be one of the most popular men in the State, and, whether elected or not, at the end of the fight, will be just the same man he was when the unexpected news of his nomination reached him.

Rev. W. H. Milburn (blind preacher) chaplain of National House of Representatives. Hamilton Hall, Monday, September 22nd.

SETTLERS COMING.

Good Prospects for the State of California This Winter.

Passenger Agent H. N. Van Arnam of the Southern Pacific was asked the other day what were the immigration prospects for this fall. He responded:

"Very good, indeed. California has been advertised extensively in the East of late, and advices from our agents beyond the Rockies show that many inquiries are being made by intending settlers for this State. The tourist travel, of course, helps us a little, but it is the settlers we want—men who will come and help to build up the country. This class will be particularly enticed here now by the splendid fruit crops we have had and the good prices that have been paid. What the landowners here should aim at is to sell their property to agriculturists at such reasonable terms that the newcomers will be able to make the land pay for itself."

Little to Divide.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal, it is among the most distressing and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

NATIONAL CASH REGISTER.

MERCHANTS: Systematize your business. A person who does business by rule, having a time and place for everything, doing his work promptly, will accomplish twice as much, and with half the trouble, as one who does it carelessly and slipshod. Take nothing for granted, but know what should be in your cash and credit drawer without counting it. After every transaction go to the National Cash Register; if a cash sale, press a key representing the amount of the sale. After a credit sale is made go to the Register, press the charged key, and put the duplicate tag in the cash drawer. At night, the adding wheels will show how many charge memorandums should be in the drawer, as well as the amount of cash that should be there. They cost you nothing, for they absolutely pay for themselves out of their savings. Read the following testimonials of well known Oakland business men. Investigate and be convinced:

OFFICE OF KIRKLAND & TROWBRIDGE, Pharmacists, 971 Broadway,
Corner Tenth Street.

We have been using the National Cash Register since January 1st and it has worked to our entire satisfaction. We would not part with it for twice its cost. On credit sales alone we believe it will pay for itself in one year's time.

Very respectfully, KIRKLAND & TROWBRIDGE.

Office of M. M. SAMSON, Wholesale and Retail Butcher and Pork Packer, 471 Eleventh St. and 1014 Washington St., Slaughter House, Oakland Stock Yards, Consignments Received on Commission.

I HAVE been using the National Cash Register now for nearly four years, and my experience is, so far, that if I had had the same Register ten years ago I would be worth a great deal more money.

AT FIRST, when you came to me to sell a Register, I thought that $200 was a great deal of money to pay for such a thing, but I readily and cheerfully state that in case I could not get another Register, I would not take $1000 for it.

Furthermore, I say that every business, no matter how small, should have one of these Registers, because it will pay for itself in a very short time. I have tried it, and have found out exactly what a Cash Register will do. It will make any and every business perfect.

Yours respectfully. M. M. SAMSON.

The Campaign Commences in Glorious Style.

A WILDLY ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING.

Crowds Congregate on the Streets—A Jam at Germania Hall—The Appearance and Addresses of the Candidates.

Alameda county fired her first gun in the Republican Gubernatorial campaign on Saturday night and the shot was a red-hot one, indicative of the patriotic spirit that will send the Republican majority in Alameda county well up to 4000 when election day comes around on the 4th of November.

Extensive arrangements had been made at the Crellin for the reception of the distinguished visitors and the room in which the levee was held was handsomely decorated with flowers and flags by J. Seulberger, assisted by Mrs. George W. Reed, Mrs. W. E. Hale and Mr. McLaughlin. A committee consisting of Judge Hilborn, V. W. Gaskill and Victor Metcalf, assisted by J. P. McElroy, W. W. Brandon, H. T. Smith and J. K. Peirsol, had been appointed to take charge of the proceedings, and the first three named gentlemen crossed the bay and escorted the candidates into Oakland. Directly it was known that they had arrived, a large crowd of citizens of all political denominations flocked to the hotel, shook hands and chatted with the guests, who had pleasant words and hearty greetings for all.

Among the many who were noted in the reception room during the course of the afternoon were: Ex-Senator Geo. E. Whitney, Judge F. W. Henshaw, District Attorney Geo. W. Reed, Judge E. E. M. Gibson, L. C. Morehouse, Senator F. J. Moffit, Senator W. E. Dargie, Hon. M. D. Hyde, Eli S. Dennison, R. M. Fitzgerald, County Superintendent P. M. Fisher, S. L. Bromwell, G. W. Frick, Judge W. E. Greene, Rod W. Church, Public Administrator Jas. Stanley, J. Taylor, H. L. Adams, J. Tyrrell, Sheriff W. E. Hale, W. H. H. Hussey, C. W. W. Connor, Capt. Blaisdell, Hon. A. C. Henry, C. W. Wilkins, W. B. Hamilton, A. L. Frick, Chas. Ott, A. J. Snyder, ex-Mayor E. W. Playter, C. I. Ingler, L. W. Jeffress, J. Langtree, H. W. Snell, A. T. Eastman, City Attorney J. A. Johnson, Councilman W. W. Camron, Auditor R. W. Snow, R. B. S. York, F. A. Campbell, P. D. Browne, N. W. W. Spaulding, J. L. Scotchler, Louis Gottshall, J. Gohrman, J. P. Ames, H. A. Powell, E. B. Jerome, Charles W. Spear, A. W. W. Davis, Postmaster A. W. Bishop, C. T. Johns, C. W. Wilkins, Supervisor Bart. Morgan, E. C. Chapman, Hon. M. C. Chapman, S. T. Gage, Frank A. Leach, Judge John Ellsworth and hundreds of others.

Shortly after 6 o'clock Colonel Markham went to dinner, accompanied by E. C. Chapman, H. T. Smith, W. R. Davis, H. V. Morehouse, V. W. Gaskill, V. H. Metcalf and Judge Hilborn, and while he was at the table other Republican workers busied themselves arranging for the procession from the hotel to Germania Hall, where the meeting was to be held.

THE PROCESSION.

Bonfires Burning and Thousands of Enthusiastic Onlookers.

As evening wore on the sightseers began to assemble on the streets, and, although there is generally a pretty big crowd on Broadway on Saturday nights, the throng was increased ten fold, for visitors had flocked in by thousands from Alameda, Haywards, Berkeley and other surrounding settlements. A few minutes before 8 o'clock the glare of a score of bonfires betokened that everything was in readiness, and soon the music of a military band was heard and the procession, which had started from the Crellin House came in sight. It was to be considered rather more of an escort than a procession, for, by the request of the guests of the evening, the proceedings were informal and more in the nature of an introduction than anything else.

The parade was headed by a cart, in which red fire was burning, and then came the Fifth Infantry Band, playing lively music, and setting a quickstep for the Republican Alliance Club, which, sixty strong, followed in its train. The "dandies" were in full uniforms, blue coats, white trouserlings, and topboots, and at their head marched a darkey, carrying a huge globular transparency, on which was inscribed: "Oakland Markam Alliance." They carried flambeaus with which they, from time to time, blew great flaming blasts and lit up the scene. As they wheeled and formed in response to various commands, they presented a very fine appearance and created much enthusiasm among the hosts of onlookers.

In an open carriage drawn by four spirited black hourses, the guests of the evening came next, Colonel Markham sitting by the side of J. B. Reddick, and facing H. V. Morehouse and L. L. Bromwell. It was Colonel Markham's first public visit to Oakland, but he was quickly recognized, and cheer followed cheer as the popular candidate passed along. He smiled and raised his hat in recognition.

The Alliance Reception Committee followed in another carriage, and then came a long line of vehicles containing the Republican County Central Committee, the representatives of the State Central Committee, and some of the vice-presidents of the evening.

The veterans of the Army and Navy Republican Club, with their colors flying, marched on foot, about a hundred of the old heroes being in line.

The Tubbs' Hotel 'bus, gaily decorated with flags and flowers and containing a number of handsome young ladies, came next, and the rear was brought up by two busses from Haywards, on one of which was inscribed: "Eden Township, Solid for Markham."

The parade proceeded as far as Eighth street, where it turned and went directly to the Germania Hall, outside which a large crowd had assembled, for the building had been filled long before the hour set for the meeting, and the late arrivals had to be contented with standing outside and getting a glimpse of the candidates as they stepped from the carriage. As the procession reached its destination the Alliance Club formed in a single line directly in front of the entrance. As Colonel Markham and his escort drew up the flambeaus sent their flames heavenward, and amidst the cheering that took place as the Colonel alighted could be heard the lusty shout of the Alliance boys: "What's the matter with Markham? He's all right! Every time, you bet! 'Rah! 'Rah! 'Rah! Alliance! Markham!"

THE MEETING.

Germania Hall Unable to Accommodate the Throng.

Within the hall every seat was taken, except those reserved for the paraders; and, as the music denoted the arrival of the procession, every head was turned toward the door to catch a first glimpse of the candidate for Governor. Surrounded by a knot of gentlemen, he came slowly up the stairs and into the hall, receiving, as he was recognized, a thunder of applause from the men and the waving of handkerchiefs from the ladies, many of whom were patriotic enough to come and fight their way into seats with the rest of the crowd. The stage was handsomely decorated with flowers and bunting, and the speaker's table was draped with a great American flag that completely enshrouded it and hung down to the floor. The decorations were the work of Republican women of Oakland, and were in splendid taste.

Every available inch of space had been taken for the accommodation of the vice-presidents, but there were so many of them that they could not all find seats, and many had to find room with the audience. The Alliance Club found seats to the left of the stage, while the Army and Navy Club sat to the right and near the band, which took up its position near the corner.

Music was, of course, the first order of the evening, and then after some more 'rah, 'rah, 'rahs for Markham by the Alliance Club, Colonel L. L. Bromwell, chairman of the meeting, advanced to the front of the stage and said:

"Fellow citizens: two years ago I had the pleasure to introduce to the Republicans of Oakland the Hon. Tom Reed, of Maine, and the same enthusiasm that followed that event will, I trust, attend this. We have a big battle to fight, and if we intend to maintain our laurels as the second Republican county of California we must get on our war paint. This is the time and the opportunity to place California among the list of certain Republican States for now and ever, and to do this we must work hard and diligently. Alameda county has now taken second place in the list of Republican strongholds on the coast, but with outstretched arms we welcome the favorite son of the banner county, and tell him that we love him and will work for him. Gentlemen, I take great pleasure in introducing to you Colonel H. H. Markham, formerly of Pasadena and now of the great State of California."

Applause that became tumultuous followed as Colonel Markham left his chair and shaking hands with Colonel Bromwell, stepped to the front and faced the meeting. Hats were waved, handkerchiefs fluttered and stamping feet and applauding hands raised such a din that the 'rah! rah! rah! of the sixty Alliance clubmen could scarcely be heard. The members of the Army and Navy Club rose to their feet and stretched out their hands in welcome and the gallery went frantic, while the Colonel, very much affected by his reception, bowed and waved his hand in response to the clamor of the greeting.

Before he said a word he had made himself a favorite by his personal appearance. Tall, broad-shouldered, and dark of visage, with a strong face, a resolute chin, and lip shaded by a heavy, drooping mustache, a kindly, keen pair of eyes, he looked what he is, a man among men, and one worthy to be the standard-bearer of the Republican party.

As soon as quiet was obtained, in a calm, low but distinct and distinctive voice, he said:

Col. Markham's Speech.

"Ladies and gentlemen and fellow citizens: I have not the power of language to describe to you my delight in meeting you here this evening. I left my home in Los Angeles two weeks ago for San Francisco for the purpose of taking the preliminary steps for the coming campaign. I have never been treated better in my life than since my arrival here, for it seems that every Republican has done his best to make me welcome. In fact, I learned to like San Francisco so well that I was thinking of living there permanently and renting a room at some cheap hotel—I am staying at the Palace now. The people of Alameda county came to me, however, and asked me to come over here to-day at 2 o'clock. I accepted their invitation, and I am glad I did. Furthermore, I am glad that on my first arrival in this bay country I did not act like the tenderfoot who buys the first piece of property he sees and regrets it ever afterwards. When I arrived here and was taken to the hotel I found my rooms there beautifully decorated—it seemed like home; yes, even better.

"Now ladies and gentlemen I am not going to make you a speech on the issues of this campaign, for there is a fellow-orator here who can do that much better than I. I realize the fact that I am now facing an audience as intelligent as any in the State—the representatives of a county that was for many years the banner county of the State. Los Angeles has the trophy now, but since the day she carried it off two years ago, Orange county has been carved out of her midst, and I would not be surprised if, at the next election, Alameda won it back again. Should such an event come to pass I would fringe the edges of that banner with gold and gladly assist in being one of those to bring it back and present it to you. I tell you though, gentlemen, that if you do intend to get it back you have not got a moment to spare.

"I am not going to talk politics to you, tonight. I never talk them much, any way, for I have found in my life that I have made very few converts by merely talking to people. I can tell them, though, that I have been a Republican from my boyhood up, that I stood for my country on the battlefields in Georgia during the war for the Union, and that I cast my first vote for Abraham Lincoln, and have never seen an hour in which I regretted that I belonged to the great Republican party. My first speech in this campaign I presented in type-written form to the leading newspapers in San Francisco, and in it I stated fully and clearly my position. The principles I expounded are those I believe, and until the sun goes down on the day of election, and after that time, if elected, I propose to stand by the statements there made.

"Gentlemen, I am satisfied from what I have been able to see that the Republican party is in as good condition now as at any time at this stage of any campaign I have ever participated in. This is due to the hard and good work of the Republican State and County Committees. I hope the ticket will be elected from top to bottom. I am interested in it. It is unnecessary for me to talk now about taxes and kindred subjects, for my friend, who will follow me, will do that. I thank you heartily for this reception. It means more than a welcome to myself. It means that you have faith in the success of the ticket in the coming campaign."

The strains of the band mingled with the applause as the Colonel resumed his seat, and the cheering was begun again as Colonel Bromwell introduced J. B. Reddick, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, saying, as he did so, that the gentleman was known among his friends as "Honest John."

Mr. Reddick is also a pleasant man to look at. His clean-shaven face bristles with good humor, and his whitened hair makes him look very patriarchal, although he is not much more than 40 years of age. He spoke as follows:

Hon. J. B. Reddick's Speech.

"Ladies and Gentlemen: If I understand aright, this is the Athens of the Pacific. Here are centered your educational establishments; here is your wealth and here are your pretty girls. I lived here myself once in days gone by, when it was but a little village, just claiming existence among the settlements of the State. I see tonight few of those faces that were here then, but I know that wherever they are, I have the sympathy of each, for those men with whom I was associated twenty-one years ago will not, nor will you be, dissatisfied if I am elected to preside over the Senate of this State.

"The men at Sacramento have presented a ticket. It contains the names of those who they expect will make it a success. I want to say one thing in connection with this. Oakland presented a candidate for the same position I was selected for. For him I have the most kindly feelings, and I am satisfied that neither Mr. Jordan nor his friends feel ill-will for me because I obtained more votes than he. [A voice—'They do not.'] All ill-will must be laid aside now, and we must put our shoulders to the wheel and work, work, work.

"Gentlemen, the Republican party is before you tonight in the presence of the candidate for Governor and myself. We claim that the Republican party is purely one of principle. We want you to look over the entire record and see if there is one thing in which it has not been consistent. There is not one principle that has been violated from the days when the party rose out of the grim-visaged ranks of war till now. Our platforms we have always stood by; but have the Democrats? No! At their recent convention they could not advance. They could only go back to the platform of 1884. Mr. Reed says the Democratic party is five years behind the times; I say it is ten years. The Republicans present all the reforms, and the Democrats come crawling along afterwards and endorse them.

"Let us look at the silver question, for instance. In August last the Republicans passed a bill that has assisted mining, real estate and commerce in general ten per cent. Were they assisted in that by the Democrats? No. They were opposed by every Democratic member of Congress. And why? Because the Republicans had proposed it, and though they knew it would be a good measure they would not endorse it. They came up afterwards, though, and called for free coinage. But, gentlemen, the Republican party is not revolutionary, and it does not seek to get ahead of the times. When the day comes for free coinage, though, the Republicans will be the first to step to the front and propose it. The leaders of the Democratic party are today opposed to silver, and they only took their stand on free coinage so as to try to make a hole in the Republican bulwarks.

"Now let us consider the treasury. The Democrats complained and groaned about a surplus. They said that money taken from the hands of the people was being stored in the nation's vaults. Is that surplus there now? No; it is circulating up and down the land, and everything is going all right. We have paid it out in redeeming bonds, so as to reduce the monies paid for interest. It has been given to the old soldiers in pensions that they were entitled to for their services to their country. And, gentlemen, when the Republican party ceases to remember the old soldiers, then I will leave it forever. All honor to those men, those noble old soldiers, who out of the smoke of Appomattox, builded a temple to fraternity and love.

"I might talk to you an hour or so, but, as the Governor has told you, we have an orator with us and I know you are waiting to listen to him. The Governor and I have just come before you to see and be seen. If you like us, vote for us on the 4th of November, and if you don't like us just scratch."

As Mr. Reddick retired amidst applause Colonel Bromwell remarked that there would be no scratching here. He then introduced Miss Daisy May Cressy, a very pretty young lady whose dress of white silk was draped with the American colors. She sang with great spirit a Markham campaign song and the catchy verses met with such applause that she was encored again and again.

The next event was the introduction of H. V. Morehouse, who Mr. Reddick had described as the "flambeau." He made a very interesting speech, discussing logically the issues of the campaign, the system of bossism that will ruin the Democratic hopes, the determination of the Republicans to stand shoulder to shoulder throughout the coming fight, and the certainty of their victory. He also dilated on the public and private life of Colonel Markham, saying that no one had been able to attack him successfully, for his honor, his capacity and his business integrity had withstood all assaults, and concluded by hoping that everyone present would cast a vote for the Colonel at the coming election.

Judging by the shouts and applause that followed, there is not much doubt that they will, for, on the chairman announcing that the evening's proceedings were over, cheers three times three were given for Colonel Markham and his associates on the ticket, and the crowd shouted itself hoarse as the candidate for Governor passed through the hall to his carriage.

At the Seventh street depot, while he was waiting for his train, the Haywards men, who had followed him down, thronged around him, shook his hand, and assured him of their good-will and devotion.

As he stepped aboard the cars, some one cried, "Three cheers for Markham!" and there was a response from a thousand pairs of lungs. Even Democrats, carried away by the enthusiasm, joined in the shout.

THE CEMETERY ROUTE.

The Bad Management of the New Broadway Line.

To the Editor of the Tribune—SIR: I do not know that you will care to give a place in the valuable columns of your paper to this communication, particularly as it may interest only those of your readers residing along the line of the branch route of the Piedmont Cable Company or those who desire, or are in the habit of visiting Mountain View Cemetery, and dependant upon said branch route for conveyance to and from that lovely City of the Dead. However, if you will kindly allow me a small space it will afford one of your most ardent supporters the opportunity to "work off a little steam" and give vent to his feelings, at same time call the attention of our Broadway Supervisors and Councilmen to the outrageous service of the Piedmont Cable Company on their branch route to the cemetery. We, I mean by "we" the regular patrons of the road, have exhausted our several vocabularies of "hard" words, and have given up in disgust in our attempts to properly express in the English language our feeling. You will recollect that several months ago the service of the old "Pneumonia and Asphyxia" line was severely criticized before the Board of Councilmen by several persons residing "out our way," and at the time when the president and drivers of the line were asking for a renewal of their franchise. It was then we were promised "great things" by the President of the road. "As soon as the cable to Piedmont was built all the abuses were to be corrected, the 'pneumonia' cars were to be done away with, and we were to have a 'service as is a service.'" In fact, we were to be made so comfortable, and to have such accommodation that we would all be made to feel ashamed of ourselves for having made any complaint about open cars, etc. The building of this wonderful cable road was commenced and carried on through through the last winter, spring, and summer, under many difficulties, owing to the heavy rains, and we patiently waded the slums of Broadway to and from the cars more particularly from the cars, owing to their habit of leaving the tracks,) trusting in the promises of the President, and believing that after all was done we would be happy. The road was finished, equipped, and cars began to run by cable to Piedmont via Twenty-fourth street, but the very first half dozen cars put on were open cars, when we were promised combination cars. Why in the world this company are so in love with open cars, and why they will run them at all unseasonable times, at early morn and late at night, is beyond my comprehension, unless it be that they are in league with the doctors; but the worst part and the great complaint is on the branch route to the cemetery. On arriving via open cable car at the corner of Broadway and Twenty-fourth street, say about 5 P. M., you receive from the conductor a very carefully and very much punched transfer, as it is called, but more appropriately named a walking ticket, and which is "void unless presented within fifteen minutes of time punched," for so it reads. You are bundled out into the middle of dusty Broadway and there stand in the cold wind from five to fifteen minutes, or longer, awaiting the arrival of connecting pneumonia car, which has hanging to its roof the suggestive legend in black letters on a white cloth, To the Cemetery. The same thing going south. At 6:30 or 7 o'clock of a cold, foggy morning you board a "pneumonia," one of the oldest and dirtiest, and are hurried to the corner of Broadway and Twenty-fourth street, where, half frozen, you again wait for a connecting cable car, but not quite so long as going north, for it is on account of the long waits at Twenty-fourth street, when homeward bound, that so many are compelled to walk in preference to waiting in the cold the opportunity to use a "transfer." Last night (Saturday) after the Republican meeting, four persons, two of them members of the Alliance Club, homeward bound and residing on the branch route, boarded a cable car on Fourteenth street and at the corner of Twenty-fourth street, at fifteen minutes of 12 o'clock, received their "walking tickets" or "transfers," as the case may be, and there, in the worst fog of the season, stood and waited till ten minutes past 12 before the connecting car arrived to convey them to their homes. Twenty-five long minutes' wait at midnight in the middle of a road! It is simply outrageous and unbearable. Something should be done at once to correct these evils, and also to give us clean cars to ride in. Either label those cable cars that make close connection with cemetery cars, "This car connects with Cemetery" or else, and better, have a cemetery car at Twenty-fourth street to meet every cable car going north, as is done on the Telegraph avenue line and every other well regulated line, and furthermore, dispense with those abominations, the pneumonia cars. If not, then I should favor the calling together of all the sufferers, and in a body, seize the President of the road, dress him in open-worked clothing, tie him to the front of an open car and ride him around till he is thoroughly chilled, build a funeral pyre of open cars, and in the open air, to the music of "Open the Gates" by an open air concert band, give him an open funeral—and an open grave. I do not care to have my name appear in print, but if any one wishes to know it, you are at liberty to state it, but meantime I am known only as,

"THE MAN FROM PIEDMONT."

Oakland, September 22, 1890.

W. W. Camron's Removal.

W. W. Camron, the Real Estate broker, has removed his office to 1208 Broadway, just across the street from the old Post Office building. Mr. Camron has displayed his usual good taste in the fitting up of his office, which is without doubt the best arranged Real Estate Office in Oakland; and certainly in the best locality, being in the business center of the city, with two cable lines that pass the door.

J. M. J. KANE WHIPPED.

A Young Woman Who Says She Soundly Thrashed Him.

Last evening two attractive young ladies came to the THE TRIBUNE office asking for a reporter. They told a lively story of how the slighter one of the two, a graceful demi-brunette, had cowhided J. M. J. Kane at the Sixteenth Street Depot, yesterday evening, as he stepped to the platform from the train that was bearing him to Louisville, Kentucky, as advance agent for Robinson's Circus. They said the reason for the cowhiding, was because Kane owed money to a friend of the young lady whipper. The story of the young women was to the effect that Kane, after being slashed several times across the head and shoulders and also getting a blow from his pretty assailant's fist, jumped on the train leaving behind him his derby hat, which had been knocked off in the scuffle. He went on his way bareheaded. The young women declined to give their names.

NATURAL GAS.

Roaring Wells North of Lake Merritt—Gas in Abundance.

The wildest kind of excitement has created north of Oakland by discovery of natural gas in abundance on one of the ranches north of Lake Merritt. The gas vein was discovered while a farmer was boring an artesian well on his property, and when ignited the flame is over 30 feet high and burns with a roar that can be heard for miles. The well has been plugged and a number of others are being bored by way of experiment. Yesterday when the news reached Oakland a rush was made for the field and never since the gold excitement has there been such an exodus. This afternoon the neighborhood of the well resemble a tented army field and hundreds of derricks have been erected already in hopes of striking gas in large quantity. Geologists who have examined the ground say it abounds in petroleum and no doubt the discovery is a valuable one.

To-day thirty more men with their families went to the head of Lake Merritt and the People's Express and Transfer Company is having a busy day attending to their moving. Besides their general express and transfer business they make a specialty of checking baggage at your home to all parts of the world. Parties desiring to go to the new gas well can summon a wagon through telephone 326, or at the office 423 Tenth street. A new well will be fired to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A Meeting of Dissatisfied Republicans

At a meeting held in this city by some of the supporters of the candidates defeated in the county convention, it was resolved; that they would not support any candidate for office, whose wife or daughter did not have her hair cutting, shampooing and hair dressing done at the Eastern hair store, 405 Twelfth street, between Broadway and Franklin. As these voters hold the balance of power in this county, it would be wise for all candidates to consult their wishes.
